SHORT STORIES OF THE CITY

Frank Haynes "Pinches" Haynes—

John Haynes, a negro who refused to provide for his wife and children, was arrested yesterday by undersheriff Frank Haynes on a warrant issued out of the court of Justice Bert Pratt.

Women's Club Meeting Today—

A mass meeting of the women of Globe has been called for 3 o'clock this afternoon in the district courtroom for the purpose of adopting the constitution and bylaws prepared for the organization of a Woman's club in this city. The promoters of the movement contemplate a club which will be divided into several departments, such as a civic improvement department, one on literature, such as the existing Wednesday club, which would be absorbed by the new organization, a department on domestic economy, and as many more departments as may be found necessary to treat the various subjects of interest to the members.

Jack Cummins Under Bond—

Jack Cummins, who recently beat up Max Bonne the butcher, was placed under $1000 bond by Justice Hinson Thomas yesterday. Bonne having complained that Cummins was threatening to assault and beat him again. When arrested for the first assault, Cummins pleaded that Bonne owed him some money for breaking horses and had refused to pay him. Bonne, when assaulted, made no defense and was badly beaten up. Friday evening he called on Justice Thomas and, with the statement that Cummins was threatening to assault him again, asked that the man be arrested.

Negligence, Says Coroner's Jury—

That A. E. Jacques, the young brakeman killed by a car at Copper Hill Thursday afternoon had come to his death through his own lack of care, was the verdict of the coroner's jury which held the inquest at 10 o'clock yesterday forenoon. The jury selected by Coroner Hinson Thomas was as follows: William Wills, C. G. Johnson, Ben Jones, Alex Simpson, H. H. Huff and J. W. Berry. Telegraphic advices from the brother of the dead man state that he was a native of Missouri, unmarried and 24 years of age. Jacques' brother, William Jacques, has requested that the body be sent to Kansas City for burial, and the remains have been prepared to this end by F. L. Jones, the undertaker.

Blacksmith's Bellows Blow Away—

A high wind on Miami Plains Thursday played hobs with Parker's blacksmith shop. The building was moved off its foundation and dumped askew, tilting the anvil, and even the bellows were blown out of tune.

"Em Ell" Celebrates Anniversary—

M. L. Naquin of Naquin & Co., the Broad street merchants, celebrated his birthday anniversary last night with a few intimate friends at a pleasant bridge whist party at his home on Nob hill. Among the guests was Russ Warner of San Francisco, a commercial traveler who has many friends in this city and section.

Punching Tickets on New Line—

W. H. Worden, better known among the boys as "Hard Rock Bill," one of the oldest and most reliable conductors on the Gila Valley, Globe & Northern, has been selected as passenger conductor on the Mexico & Colorado, the new road that is being built from Cochise to Courtland. B. S. Cooper has been appointed as conductor of the construction train. Both will have their headquarters at Pearce.

Old Dominion Officials in City—

Dr. James Douglas and President Charles S. Smith of the Old Dominion Copper Mining & Smelting company, arrived in the city yesterday forenoon at 11 o'clock on their special car, which was brought up from Bowie by Conductor Carnes, one of the oldest and most trusted men in the employ of the Gila Valley, Globe & Northern. Dr. Douglas and Mr. Smith will remain here until Sunday evening, looking over the property of the Old Dominion company.

Car Shops Are Busy—

Work is being pushed in the car shops of the Gila Valley, Globe & Northern, where repairs are being made on a number of coaches and freight cars. The old baggage car which was replaced for a time by a car from the Cananea line, has been thoroughly overhauled and looks like a new car.

Building Warehouse Track—

Section Foreman Thompson began yesterday the construction of the switch leading up to the new freight house, and the work will be finished in a few days, as there is very little grading to do. The painters were also set to work on the new building yesterday morning.

World Lock Up Locomotive—

Locking up a fractious locomotive was the novel expedient of Pat Mieh, a Hibernian employe at the Gila Valley roundhouse. Mike Brownlee had got into the cab of an engine in from a run and undertook to take her into the roundhouse. The throttle leaked and Mike ran over the pit. He tried to throw the lever back, but had to swing it forward again when the engine was about to take a header under the turntable. Mike ran the engine back and forth for a while, making desperate, but fruitless efforts to stop her, while Pat watched him anxiously, running back and forth with the engine. "Jist git her back inter th' roun' house an' I'll shoot th' dhure on th' dommed thing," roared Mike at last, but a machinist came to their rescue and saved the roundhouse door.

New Operator—

The telegraph business has developed to such an extent recently that the Western Union company has found it necessary to employ an additional operator for the day trick. J. W. Wheatley arrived last evening from Los Angeles to assume this position.

Developing Bowie Marble Works—

Three carloads of machinery, including two steam hoisting engines and other apparatus, were received at Bowie yesterday and will be transported to the marble quarry, about ten miles south of that point. The quarry, which has been found to contain marble of an excellent quality, is being worked by a Denver syndicate, which will extract the rough marble and ship it to Denver to be finished.

Boston Looks to Globe—

S. F. Sullenberger, who has just returned from a business trip to Texas and the coast, reports business conditions in this city are far better than in any other place in the country, and that Globe is attracting more and more attention in the business world. In Boston, especially, Mr. Sullenberger said, considerable interest was being taken in the mineral development of this section, which is growing more and more attractive to capitalists. Mr. Sullenberger stopped at Amarillo, Texas, and found that much influence is being brought to bear upon the Texas legislature, now in session, for the passage of a bank deposit guarantee law, which he thought would eventually be passed. Speaking of Roosevelt, the banker said that the general opinion seemed to be that he had overreached himself.

Trotted Over Bridge—

J. H. Stone was arrested yesterday afternoon by Deputy Marshal Cochran for trotting over the bridge in Hill street. He will be given a hearing this morning before Justice Hinson Thomas. This is the first arrest made under the ordinance in several months.

A small but very rich pocket of silver was struck by the National Mining Exploration company on its property at a depth of twenty feet. The ore, of which there is about 300 pounds, will run 1600 ounces in silver and 10 per cent in copper. The shaft, which has reached a depth of twenty-eight or thirty feet, is entirely in ledge matter—porphyry and oxides.

RUBERTO'S FATE TO BE DECIDED IN WASHINGTON

MEMPHIS OFFICER ASKS FEDERAL AUTHORITIES FOR CUSTODY.

MUST WAIT UNTIL NEXT WEEK

ANOTHER RUBERTO ARRESTED IN DENVER INCREASES TANGLE OF CASE.

Alessandro Ruberto's case, after having been the bright particular stellar feature in local police circles for a whole week, has been taken to Washington, the seat of the national government.

What telegrams may be received today, no one knows, but it is now considered hardly possible that the interesting case of the Italian confidence man will be disposed of until Monday.

Deputy Sheriff A. B. Hurst of Memphis, who has come two thousand miles to take Ruberto back to Tennessee, did not receive the expected extradition papers from Memphis last night. Two papers may not be here until tomorrow night, but even if they should be received tonight, tomorrow will be Sunday, and nothing can be done in the courts before the next day, Monday.

The whole question has resolved itself into one of jurisdiction, and the expectation is that this question will not be settled until Attorney Flannigan takes the case into the district court, before Judge Nave, and has it settled after habeas corpus proceedings. The fact is that Flannigan, carrying out his client's wishes to go to New York instead of Tennessee, has tangled up the game beautifully, and yesterday, Hurst telegraphed to Washington, asking that no objection be made to his taking the prisoner.

Ruberto, it will be recalled by the readers of the Silver Belt, was arraigned first on a charge of attempted forgery, preferred by a local Italian merchant and dismissed without hearing by the district attorney. A similar charge was preferred by another merchant, and this charge, after a lengthy preliminary examination, was dismissed by Justice Hinson Thomas. Ruberto was immediately re-arrested as a fugitive from justice from Tennessee and was awaiting a hearing on that charge when Deputy United States Marshal Sturgis called on him and served a warrant issued by United States Commissioner Johnson. The following day, Ruberto waived examination and was placed under a $5000 bond by the commissioner. The evening of the same day, he was given a hearing by Justice Hinson Thomas and placed under a $2,000 bond and given ten days in the custody of Sheriff Thompson to await the action of the Tennessee authorities.

These were the conditions when Deputy Sheriff Hurst arrived from Memphis Thursday night, Governor Patterson of Tennessee having forwarded requisition papers to Acting Governor Page of Arizona.

Yesterday, Arbor day, was a legal holiday and there was nothing to be done in the courts, even if the requisition papers had been on hand. The question now is, if the requisition papers have been honored by Acting Governor Page, one of jurisdiction. In other words, it is a question as to whether the United States officers had a right to serve a warrant on one of the prisoners of the county, and, in natural sequence, whether the subsequent arraignment and commitment by the United States commissioner is valid.

If Sturgis acted in his rights, the prisoner belongs to the United States. If Sturgis exceeded his authority, Ruberto must go to Tennessee, whether he likes it or not.

The argument presented to the authorities at Washington was this: The state of Tennessee and the people victimized there by Ruberto have gone to much expense in an endeavor to bring the prisoner back to punishment. The government is out nothing, having jurisdiction in all of the states. If Ruberto is sent to New York, whether he is acquitted or punished by the federal court, he will find an officer of the State of Tennessee waiting for him at the door of either the courthouse or the penitentiary as he walks out. But this would cost the state additional money, while the government could proceed against Ruberto just as easily in Memphis as in Globe or New York.

Another One in Denver.

Incidental to the local proceedings, news reaches the Silver Belt of the arrest at Denver of Pasquale Ruberto, suspected of being an absconding banker from Baltimore. The Denver prisoner, however, protests loudly that he is the victim of mistaken identity and that it is a cousin of his, a man bearing the same name, who is wanted. Pasquale Ruberto, a saloon keeper, by the way, is ready and anxious to go to Baltimore without extradition papers and without the least objection, so confident is he that he will be able to establish his innocence.

The local officers are of the opinion that Alessandro Ruberto, the man of many aliases held in this city, is the man for whom the Denver saloon keeper was arrested.

"Have you a cousin named Pasquale Ruberto?" the Silver Belt asked Alessandro.

"No, no, no," answered the Italian in his oily, confidential way. "The only cousin I have is a lady cousin up in Colorado."

Nothing had been said of Denver in the query, and Ruberto mentioned Colorado of his own volition and without the least suggestion.

The prisoner was then in the steel cage, inside the jail, and the conversation was, perforce, limited to an exchange of messages.
